ABSTRACT

This report provides an overview of the state credentialing requirements needed for professional school counselors in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia. The requirements outlined are those necessary to obtain an initial entry-level credential. The overview of state credentialing requirements provides educational, experience, and examination requirements for each state, and tells whether or not background checks are required. This is followed by an overview of state counseling mandates that consider the following categories: whether or not counseling is mandated; grade level for the mandate; ratio of counselor to students; source of the mandate; source of funding for the mandate; and whether or not the state is considering mandates. A statement on the role of the school counselor and the position paper on school counseling programs from the American School Counselor Association complete the report. (JDM)

ABOUT THE INFORMATION IN THIS REPORT

The information in this report was compiled through an analysis of state laws, regulations, credentialing applications, and written communications with state officials. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the information presented here, but due to the complexity of some of the regulations and the frequency with which state regulations can and do change, we cannot guarantee that this report is completely without error. Readers are invited to bring any errors, omissions, or changes to our attention at the American Counseling Association, Office of Public Policy & Legislation, 5999 Stevenson Avenue, Alexandria, VA 22304.

For additional information, or clarification or interpretation of any of the laws and regulations summarized in this report, please contact the appropriate state agency.

STATE CREDENTIALING OF PROFESSIONAL SCHOOL COUNSELORS

Professional school counselors are required by law and/or regulation in every state to obtain a state-issued credential in order to be employed in public schools. In some states, this credential is called “certification”; others term it “licensure” or “endorsement”.

The requirements and qualifications needed to obtain this credential in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia are summarized in the chart on pages 7-40 of this report. The requirements outlined for each state are those necessary to obtain an initial entry-level credential as a professional school counselor. Some states permit school counselors to obtain provisional or temporary credentials pending their satisfaction of all of these requirements. Readers who are interested in this option should contact their state agency to learn whether, and under what circumstances, it may be available in their state.

Renewal and Different Tiers of Licensure

Most states require professional school counselors to complete additional coursework or earn continuing education credits in order to renew their credentials. Some states also have different tiers of credentialing, granting counselors with greater experience and/or educational attainment, credentials of longer duration. Information about these elements of state credentialing programs is omitted from this report.

Alternative Routes to Certification

A growing number of states are establishing alternative paths for the credentialing of teachers and other school personnel. In compiling this report, we have tried to include any alternative certification program that affects requirements for professional school counselors. Information on this issue was difficult to obtain, however, and we would welcome more information and feedback from professional school counselors and state officials in those states that are implementing alternative certification programs.

AN OVERVIEW OF STATE CREDENTIALING REQUIREMENTS

EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS

- ⇒ All states require graduate education in guidance and counseling as an entry-level prerequisite for state credentialing as a professional school counselor. Forty-five (45) states and the District of Columbia require attainment of a Master's degree in counseling and guidance or a related field.
- ⇒ Nineteen (19) states require applicants to complete a specific minimum number of credit hours of graduate study in guidance and counseling before they can be credentialed. An additional five (5) states require this only if the Master's degree earned is in a field other than school counseling and guidance or teacher education. The number of required hours ranges from 18-39 semester hours. Most states (13) require completion of 30 credit hours or more.
- ⇒ Fourteen (14) states require applicants to supplement their graduate education in guidance and counseling with training or coursework in additional subject areas. These areas include:
  - ◆ Education of children with disabilities (7 states)
  - ◆ Multicultural issues (6 states)
  - ◆ Substance abuse counseling (1 state)
  - ◆ State and/or Federal laws and constitutions (3 states)
  - ◆ Use and applications of technology in education (1 state)
  - ◆ Identification and reporting of child abuse (2 states)
- ⇒ Twenty-eight (28) states and the District of Columbia require completion of a practicum and/or a supervised, school-based internship. The prescribed duration of the internship ranges from 200-700 clock hours.

EXPERIENCE REQUIREMENTS

- ⇒ Twenty-seven (27) states and the District of Columbia require applicants to have previous employment experience in order to obtain an entry-level credential.
  - ◆ Twenty-six (26) states and the District of Columbia require applicants to have previous teaching or related experience (1-3 years).
  - ◆ Five (5) of these states require applicants to have previous teaching or related experience (1-3 years), but permit these requirements to be satisfied by completion of a one-year supervised, school-based internship (Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Minnesota, and Wisconsin).
  - ◆ Two (2) states, Nevada and New Hampshire, require applicants to have previous teaching or related experience only if their graduate study was in a major other than guidance and counseling.
  - ◆ One (1) state, Maine, requires applicants to have previous work experience in any area.

EXAMINATION REQUIREMENTS

⇒ Twenty-five (25) states use one or more standardized examinations as part of the credentialing process. An additional eight (8) states use only state-administered tests (i.e., Massachusetts Communication and Literacy Test).

- ◆ Fifteen (15) states use examinations that measure professional knowledge of the practice of guidance and counseling (NTE Specialty Area Exam or Praxis II Specialty Area Exam in School Guidance & Counseling and equivalents).
- ◆ Twenty (20) states use examinations that measure basic proficiency in reading, mathematics, and writing (the Praxis I PPST, NTE Core Battery, and equivalents).
- ◆ Eight (8) states use examinations that measure professional knowledge of teaching and learning (the NTE Specialty Area Exam in Teaching, Praxis II Specialty Area Exam: Principles of Learning & Teaching, and equivalents).

RECIPROCITY

⇒ Thirty-eight (38) states allow reciprocity.

CRIMINAL BACKGROUND CHECKS

⇒ Thirty-eight (38) states require criminal background checks of all applicants. One (1) state, Nebraska, requires this only if applicant is a non-Nebraska resident.

USING AND UNDERSTANDING THE INFORMATION PRESENTED IN THE CHART

EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS

This column sets out the minimum educational qualifications required to be credentialed as a professional school counselor. Special coursework or training requirements (i.e., multicultural training, identification of child abuse) are also detailed.

Recency Credit and Recency Experience

Many states require applicants to have earned at least a portion of their academic credits within the past several years (generally, five years). Some also require that any experience applied toward meeting experience requirements be recent as well. These requirements are denoted on the chart by the terms “recency credit” and “recency experience”. The state agency should be contacted for more information about the specifics of these requirements.

EXPERIENCE REQUIREMENTS

This column indicates what previous experience is required in order to obtain credentialing as a professional school counselor. A number of states, for example, require applicants to have previous classroom teaching experience. In some instances, these experience requirements may be satisfied while working under a provisional or temporary credential. The state agency should be contacted to learn whether this option is available.

EXAMINATION

A number of states require professional school counselors to pass standardized examinations as part of their credentialing requirements. This column outlines the tests required and, if available, the minimum passing score required.

Educational Testing Service Assessments

The Educational Testing Service (ETS) administers many of tests that are used by state agencies in their credentialing program.

- ◆ Praxis I: Pre-Professional Skills Tests (PPST) measure proficiency in mathematics, reading, and writing through multiple choice questions and an essay. They are administered by ETS on a regular basis in pencil and paper format at sites throughout the country. Computer-based versions of these assessments can also be taken by appointment at ETS field offices and other sites.
- ◆ Praxis II: Specialty Area Exams measure proficiency in and knowledge of a specific field of specialization, in this case, School Guidance and Counseling. In some cases, the Principles of Learning and Teaching section test is required.

- ♦ The National Teacher Exam (NTE) Core Battery Tests measure proficiency in three areas: General Knowledge, Communication Skills, and Professional Knowledge.
- ♦ The National Teacher Exam Specialty Area Tests measure proficiency in and knowledge of a specific field of specialization. The applicable tests for professional school counselors are the Teaching assessment and/or the School Guidance and Counseling assessment.

For more information about these examinations, contact ETS at 1-800-772-9476.

State-Administered Assessments

Some states have developed and administer their own assessments for school counselors, teachers, and other school personnel. State agencies should be contacted for more information about these assessments.

RECIPROCITY

This column indicates whether the state recognizes a comparable credential issued by another state and permits applicants to use this credential to meet all or part of the state's requirements for credentialing.

The complexity of state reciprocity regulations and procedures precluded us from providing more detailed information about how reciprocity is handled by each state. The process is never automatic, however, and out-of-state credentials may only be substituted to the extent that they are comparable to the credentials of the state in which the application is being made.

BACKGROUND CHECK

This column reports whether a state requires applicants to supply fingerprints and undergo a criminal background check. Some additional background requirements, such as U.S. citizenship, are also indicated here.

STATE MANDATES FOR THE PROVISION OF SCHOOL GUIDANCE AND COUNSELING

Through both legislative and administrative action, a growing number of states require local school districts to provide guidance and counseling services to their students.

This year, ACA conducted a survey of state education agencies to determine the current status of counseling mandates, the grade levels to which the mandates apply, the source of mandates (administrative or legislative action), specific requirements of the mandates (e.g., counselor-student ratios), and whether the mandate was supported with state or local funds. Agencies in states without a mandate were also asked if they were actively considering establishing a mandate through administrative action.

The results of the survey are outlined in the chart on pages 43-50 of this report. Pages 51-59 contain actual mandates for (5) states.

AN OVERVIEW OF STATE COUNSELING MANDATES

- ⇒ Twenty-seven (27) states and the District of Columbia mandate the provision of guidance and counseling services in public elementary and/or secondary schools. Most of these mandates were established through legislative action. Tennessee and North Dakota just recently mandated school counseling.
- ◆ Two (2) states, Minnesota and Wyoming, are actively considering establishing a mandate through legislative action.
- ⇒ Twenty-three (23) states and the District of Columbia mandate the provision of guidance and counseling at all grade levels. Two (2) states only mandate services in grades 7-12 (Indiana and New York), and another two (2) states only mandate services in grades 9-12 (Mississippi and Nebraska).
- ⇒ Sixteen states (16) prescribe specific counselor-student ratios in their mandates. Ratios range from 1 counselor for every 400 students to 1 counselor for every 800 students.
- ⇒ Most state counseling mandates are funded through local tax levy funds. Twelve (12) states provide state funding to support mandated counseling services.

⇒ One (1) state, Utah, requires school guidance and counseling services as part of the public elementary and secondary schools' accreditation process.

(Louisiana House Bill No.2001 Act 911)

An Act

To enact R.S. 17:3005, relative to guidance counselors; to provide relative to elementary school guidance counselors for all students in kindergarten through grade six; to require parish and city school boards to provide such counselors according to certain guidelines; to provide relative to certification requirements for such counselors; to provide certain guidance services and work time for such guidance counselors; to provide relative to certain exceptions; to provide for annual reporting by the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education; to provide relative to funding; and to provide for related matters.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Louisiana:

Section I.R.S. 17:3005 is hereby enacted to read as follows:

Elementary school guidance counselors; availability; guidelines; requirements; guidance services; work time; exceptions; reporting; funding.

A. Each parish and city school board shall provide elementary school guidance counselors for all students in kindergarten through grade six in the public elementary schools in the state in accordance with guidelines as established by the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education. Such guidelines shall require that there shall be one guidance counselor per every four hundred students.

B. Any elementary school guidance counselor employed by a parish or city school board pursuant to the provisions of this Section shall be certified as required by the state of Louisiana.

C. Such guidance counselors shall provide preventive and developmental guidance services to all public elementary school students in kindergarten through grade six in order to prepare them for middle, junior, and senior high school responsibilities and their social and physical development. In providing such guidance services, the counselors may:

(1) Aid children in academic development through the use and interpretation of test scores, improved pupil self-concept, and early identification and attention to problems that are deterrents to learning and development.

Examples of State Counseling Mandates

(2) Serve as consultants to teachers relative to the use of test scores and improvement of the learning environment, use of out-of-state school resources and agencies, and development of a home-school liaison.

(3) Offer services related to the identification and placement of children with handicapping conditions.

(4) Serve as a consultant to parents, in a liaison capacity, as a resource in understanding growth and development problems, and as an aid in understanding how some non-school factors affect learning and achievement of children.

(5) Serve as a resource in decreasing discipline and other at-risk behavioral problems through an understanding of peer relations, teacher-pupil relations, social awareness, drug awareness, and others.

(6) Aid in improving school attendance and retention by implementing an early identification and prevention program for potential attendance and retention problems.

(7) Serve as a resource to parents in decreasing the incidence of juvenile delinquency by early intervention through guidance and counseling services.

(8) Consult with teachers in implementing a career development program which, at the elementary school level, includes self-awareness, job awareness, and prevocational orientation.

(9) Provide an available source for youngsters needing someone to "just listen" to their problems or concerns.

D. Guidance counselors shall spend the majority of their time on providing direct counseling related to students.

E. Nothing in Subsection A of this Section shall prohibit any parish or city school board from employing more elementary school guidance counselors than provided in Subsection A.

F. The State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education shall annually report to the legislature on the implementation and effectiveness of the program as provided in this Section.

G. The provisions of this Section shall become effective upon the provision of funds for this purpose in the Minimum Foundation Program.

Role Statement: The School Counselor

American School Counselor Association

The American School Counselor Association recognizes and supports the implementation of comprehensive developmental counseling programs at all educational levels. The programs are designed to help all students develop their educational, social, career, and personal strengths and to become responsible and productive citizens. School counselors help create and organize these programs, as well as provide appropriate counselor interventions.

School counseling programs are developmental by design, focusing on needs, interests, and issues related to the various stages of student growth. There are objectives, activities, special services and expected outcomes, with an emphasis on helping students to learn more effectively and efficiently. There is a commitment to individual uniqueness and the maximum development of human potential. A counseling program is an integral part of a school's total educational program.

The School Counselor

The school counselor is a certified professional educator who assists students, teachers, parents, and administrators. Three generally recognized helping processes used by the counselor are counseling, consulting, and coordinating: 1) Counseling is a complex helping process in which the counselor establishes a trusting and confidential working relationship. The focus is on problem-solving, decision-making, and discovering personal meaning related to learning and development; 2) Consultation is a cooperative process in which the counselor-consultant assists others to think through problems and to develop skills that make them more effective in working with students; 3) Coordination is a leadership process in which the counselor helps organize and manage a school's counseling program and related services.

School counselors are employed in elementary, middle/junior high, senior high, and post-secondary schools. Their work is differentiated by attention to age-specific developmental stages of growth and related interests, tasks, and challenges. School counselors are human behavior and relationship specialists who organize their work around fundamental interventions.

Counselor interventions have sometimes been referred to as functions, services, approaches, tasks, activities, or jobs. They have, at times, been viewed as roles themselves, helping to create the image of the counselor. In a comprehensive developmental counseling program, school counselors organize their work schedules around the following basic interventions:

- Individual Counseling. Individual counseling is a personal and private interaction between a counselor and a student in which they work together on a problem or topic of interest. A face-to-face, one-to-one meeting with a counselor provides a student maximum privacy in which to freely explore ideas, feelings, and behaviors. School counselors establish trust and build a helping relationship. They respect the privacy of information, always considering actions in terms of the rights, integrity, and welfare of students. Counselors are obligated by law and ethical standards to report and to refer a case when a person's welfare is in jeopardy. It is a counselor's duty to inform an individual of the conditions and limitations under which assistance may be provided.
- Small Group Counseling. Small group counseling involves a counselor working with two or more students together. Group size generally ranges from five to eight members. Group discussion may be relatively unstructured or may be based on structured learning activities. Group members have an opportunity to learn from each other. They can share ideas, give and receive feedback, increase their awareness, gain new knowledge, practice skills, and think about their goals and actions. Group discussions may be problem-centered, where attention is given to particular concerns or problems. Discussions may be growth-centered, where general topics are related to personal and academic development.
- Large Group Guidance. Large group meetings offer the best opportunity to provide guidance to the largest number of students in a school. Counselors first work with students in large groups wherever appropriate because it is the most efficient use of time. Large group work involves cooperative learning methods, in which the larger group is divided into smaller working groups under the supervision of a counselor or teacher. The guidance and counseling curriculum, composed of organized objectives and adjectives, is delivered by teachers or counselors in classrooms or advisory groups. School counselors and teachers may co-lead some activities. Counselors develop and present special guidance units which give attention to particular development issues or areas of concern in their respective schools and they help prepare teachers to deliver part of the guidance and counseling curriculum.
- Consultation. The counselor as a consultant helps people to be more effective in working with others. Consultation helps individuals think through problems and concerns, acquire more knowledge and skill, and become more objective and self-confident. This intervention can take place in individual or group conferences, or through staff-development activities.
- Coordination. Coordination as a counselor intervention is the process of managing various indirect services which benefit students and being a liaison between school and community agencies. It may include organizing special events which involve parents or resource people in the community in guidance projects. It often entails collecting data and disseminating information. Counselors might coordinate a student needs assessment, the interpretation of standardized tests, a child study team, or a guidance related teacher or parent education program.

The Preparation of School Counselors

School counselors are prepared for their work through the study of interpersonal relationships and behavioral sciences in graduate education courses in accredited colleges and universities. Preparation involves special training in counseling theory and skills related to school settings. Particular attention is given to personality and human development theories and research, including career and life-skills development; learning theories, the nature of change and the helping process; theories and approaches to appraisal, multicultural and community awareness; educational environments; curriculum development; professional ethics; and, program planning, management, and evaluation.

Counselors are prepared to use the basic interventions in a school setting, with special emphasis on the study of helping relationships, facilitative skills, brief counseling; group dynamics and group learning activities; family systems, brief counseling; group dynamics and group learning activities; family systems; peer helper programs, multicultural and cross-cultural helping approaches; and, educational and community resources for special school populations.

School counselors are aware of their own professional competencies and responsibilities within the school setting. They know when and how to refer or involve other professionals. They are accountable for their actions and participate in appropriate studies and research related to their work.

Responsibility to the Profession

To assure high quality practice, counselors are committed to continued professional growth and personal development. They are active members of the American Association for Counseling and Development and the American School Counselor Association, as well as state and local professional associations which foster and promote school counseling. They also uphold the ethical and professional standards of these associations.

School counselors meet the state certification standards and abide by the laws in the states where they are working. Counselors work cooperatively with individuals and organizations to promote the overall development of children, youth, and families in their communities.

(Adopted July 1990)

THE SCHOOL COUNSELOR AND COMPREHENSIVE SCHOOL COUNSELING PROGRAMS

THE POSITION STATEMENT OF THE AMERICAN SCHOOL COUNSELOR ASSOCIATION (ASCA): (Adopted 1997)

ASCA endorses comprehensive school counseling programs that promote and enhance student learning. The focus of the program is on the three broad and interrelated areas of student development: academic, career, and personal/social development. Each encompasses a variety of desired student learning competencies, which form the foundation of the developmental school counseling program. The school counselor uses a variety of activities and resources to promote the desired student development. School counselor responsibilities include organization, implementation, and coordination of the program.

THE RATIONALE

A comprehensive school counseling program is developmental in nature. It is systematic, sequential, clearly defined, and accountable. The foundation of the program is developmental psychology, educational philosophy, and counseling methodology. Proactive and preventative in focus, the school counseling program is integral to the educational program. It assists students in acquiring and using life-long skills through the development of academic, career, self-awareness, and interpersonal communication skills. The goal of the comprehensive school counseling program is to provide all students with life success skills.

The school counseling program has characteristics similar to other educational programs, including scope and sequence; student competencies or outcomes; activities and processes to assist students in achieving the outcomes; professionally credentialed personnel; materials and resources; and national standards for evaluation.

We recognize that our educational system is being challenged by the increasing needs of today's students and the rising expectations of society. Many of our children enter school with emotional, physical, and interpersonal barriers to learning. Although comprehensive school counseling programs include necessary crisis-oriented responsive services, the emphasis is on the developmental skill building for all students beginning when students enter school and continuing as they progress through the grades.

Effective school counseling programs are a collaborative effort between the counselor and other educators to create an environment which promotes school success. Staff and counselors value and respond to diversity and individual differences in our society and communities. Comprehensive school counseling programs help ensure equal opportunities for all students to participate fully in the educational process.

This school counseling model is compatible with the National Education Goals and the National Standards for School Counseling Programs.

THE COUNSELOR'S ROLE

Within a comprehensive school counseling program, counselors will focus their skills, time, and energy on direct service to students, staff, and families. ASCA recommends a realistic counselor-student ratio to be 1:250. School counselors will spend 70% of their time in direct service to students. Indirect services will include counseling program planning, maintenance and evaluation, participation in school site planning and implementation, partnerships and alliances with post-secondary institutions, businesses, and community agencies, and other tasks which enhance the mission of the program.

The comprehensive school counseling program balances many components. It requires counselors to deliver individual and small group counseling and large group guidance; to teach skill development in academic, career, and personal/social areas; to provide consultation and case management; and to coordinate, manage, and evaluate the school counseling program.

As student advocates, school counselors participate as members of the educational team. They consult and collaborate with teachers, administrators, and families to assist students to be successful academically, vocationally, and personally. School counselors are indispensable partners with the instructional staff in the development of contributing members of society. They assure, on behalf of students and their families, that all school programs facilitate the educational process and offer the opportunity for school success.

SUMMARY

A written comprehensive, developmentally-based preK-12 school counseling program should be implemented in every school district. It should include a systematic and planned program delivery that productively involves all students and promotes and enhances the learning process. The comprehensive school counseling program facilitates student development in three areas:

- ◆ academic development which includes the acquisition of skills, attitudes, and knowledge which contributes to effective learning in school and throughout the life span;
- ◆ career development which includes the foundation for the acquisition of skills, attitudes, and knowledge which will enable students to make a successful transition from school to careers;
- ◆ personal/social development which includes the acquisition of skills, attitudes, and knowledge to help students understand and respect self and others, acquire effective interpersonal skills, understand and practice safety and survival skills, and develop into contributing members of society.

The comprehensive school counseling program should be supported by appropriate resources and implemented and coordinated by a credentialed professional school counselor.

THE SCHOOL COUNSELOR CREDENTIALING AND LICENSURE

(Adopted 1990; revised 1993)

ASCA strongly endorses and supports the school counselor standards developed by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP) and encourages all state education agencies to adopt those professional standards for school counselor credentialing. Further, ASCA supports the credentialing and employment of well qualified counselors who have a background in the schools. It also supports the credentialing and employment of counselors who do not have a background in the schools as long as they have a Master's degree in the helping field with training in all areas specified by the CACREP standards plus a one year internship in a school under the supervision of a qualified school counselor and a university supervisor.
